Storm Into Noyers British Attacking On 9-Mile Front

By WES GALLAGHER
ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, July 17.—(AP)—The 2nd British Army fought blazing engagements in the streets of two villages and captured two others as Gen. Dempsey threw forward strong forces on a nine mile front southwest of Caen in a drive aimed at bursting out of the Normandy peninsula, headquarters announced today.

On the British right, American patrols, attacking in a thick morning mist in the seventh day of their siege of St. Lo, have driven into that heavily defended bulwark of the Nazi Normandy line, and threatened Lessay, western anchor of the line.

Attacking both to the southeast and southwest in a two-direction offensive southwest of Caen, the British troops forced their way into houses at the eastern edge of Evrecy, 7½ miles from Caen and the key to high ground in the blood-drenched triangle between the Odon and Orne rivers.

They by-passed this town and pushed on for about half a mile to the southeast of it, while one force attacked it directly.

HOLD HALF OF NOYERS
The 2nd Army also held the eastern half of Noyers, four miles to the northwest, where their armor and infantry penetrated during an early morning fog which confused friend and foe alike.

A mile and a half north of Noyers, they captured Vende, and in the course of an advance of 2½ miles to OTTAWA, July 17.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King today in the Commons confirmed the cancellation of arrangements to broadcast a speech on Aug. 7 on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of his leadership of the Liberal party.

Answering a question placed on the order paper by Frederic Dorton (Ind., Charlevoix-Saguenay), Mr. King said the broadcast was cancelled, as was the dinner in his honor, without his knowledge and before the provincial election in Quebec was announced.

He said he felt the motives of himself and the party would be "misunderstood" if the broadcast was held and had asked the committee in charge to cancel the arrangements. He also felt that at this stage of the war he should be the last to do anything to cause political controversy.

Mr. King also said he had learned through the press that Liberal members and senators proposed to make him a presentation. He had asked that no presentation be made.

Report Paratroops Drop on Reich Soil

By JOSEPH GRIGG
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1944, by British United Press
LONDON, July 17.—A Soviet front dispatch reported heavy fighting today in the "immediate neighborhood of East Prussia" and unconfirmed Stockholm advices said Russian paratroops had landed in that easternmost province of Germany proper.

The Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet reported without immediate corroboration by any other source that Red army paratroops had showered down on German soil ahead of the Soviet forces sweeping in force toward the border.

Swiss reports said the Nazis had ordered immediate evacuation of civilians from a border belt of East Prussia extending as far west as the big rail junction of Insterburg.

A Moscow dispatch of the Exchange Telegraph said Russian tanks and motorized infantry were breaking into the outer defenses of Kaunas, pre-war capital of Lithuania and bracketed with fallen Grodno as one of the Continued on Page 2, Col. 3

Two Are Drowned Blindman River Claims Life of Rimby Youth

Drowning accidents claimed the lives of two young Alberta boys Sunday. Twelve-year-old Daniel MacLean, son of H. A. MacLean, was drowned in the Blindman river, which runs by the back door of his farm home two miles south of Rimby.

The victim got out beyond his depth while playing with his three brothers and two other children, at about 3:30 p.m.

Second victim of drowning was Robert Joseph Raskewitch, 9-year-old son of Matthew Raskewitch, Coalhurst.

Rimby is south west of Wetaskiwin and Coalhurst is near Lethbridge.

Parents of Donald MacLean were visiting with neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Williams, a few miles away, when the tragedy occurred.

RECEIVED WARNING
The children had been warned to stay away from the river which has a swift current this season because of flood conditions.

Donald walked out beyond his depth while playing with the other children and disappeared. His companions, eldest of whom is only 14, became confused and made no attempt at a rescue.

The body of the MacLean child was recovered about a half hour later by a young farmer.

An attempt was made by Dr. W. A. MacKay and Dr. S. F. Byers, visitors to Rimby, to revive the lad but the attempts were in vain.

The victim is survived by his parents and four brothers, Alan, Neil, Daniel and Martin.

The Raskewitch lad from Coalhurst drowned in a reservoir, where he accidentally fell into. The tank contained water to a depth of five feet.

Typhoons Carry Two Big Bombs

LONDON, July 17.—(CP)—R.A.F. typhoon fighter-bombers now carry a 1,000 pound bomb under each wing—twice their former load and more than double that of the medium bombers Britain was using at the start of the war—the air ministry disclosed last night. After dropping its bombs the Typhoon can go in at 400 miles an hour with devastating fire from four 20 millimetre cannons.

Canucks in Advance

ROME, July 17.—(CP)—The British 8th Army was fanning out north and west of fallen Arezzo, key communications centre 37 miles southeast of Florence, as German defence difficulties grew and losses mounted, Allied headquarters said today.

Canadian armor was taking part in this advance through difficult hill country.

Meantime American units of the Allied 5th Army moved on Livorno.

ROME, July 17.—(BUP)—Eight Army troops have crossed the upper Arno five miles northwest of Arezzo, capturing a bridge intact in a speedy advance, it was announced today.

after capturing the dominating height of Monte Magliare and pushing on up the Italian west coast to the edge of Montenero, only four miles from the heart of the big port.

Simultaneously, other American forces slammed forward in the Era Valley to within 3½ miles of the Arno river in a broad flanking movement well east of Livorno and Pisa.

British Troops Are Attacking On Wide Front

Noyers they took the village of Haut des Forges, one-half mile east of Noyers.

Capture of Noyers appeared imminent as the Tommies held the dominating hill, No. 125, on the northern outskirts.

Every Noyers and Vende represented a five mile front on both sides of the Caen road to Villers-Bocage.

IN their southeastward thrust, which was begun at dusk Saturday, the British troops had taken Esquay, but field dispatches said this bitterly-contested town again was in no-man's-land.

CAN BE CAPTURED

Lessay, western anchor of the German line, apparently was lost to the Germans any time the Americans chose to clinch control. The troops had entered the town across the flooded Ay river and reported only moderate opposition.

In the centre, Gen. Bradley's men made rapid gains in front and slanting attacks on Periers, capturing the village of Les Milleries, about a mile and a half north of the town, and taking other positions pointing close to the St. Lo-Periers road.

A Cassino-like battle was in prospect at St. Lo. Headquarters said Germans were fighting savagely in the outskirts. Full capture of the town was likely to be a matter of several days bloody struggle.

Dispatches from the front said the Germans apparently had dug subterranean forts and tunnels under the ruins and in two years of preparation made painstaking efforts to fortify the highway centre whose strategic value was first recognized by Charlemagne.

KNOCK OUT 42 TANKS

Forty-two German tanks had been knocked out in 24 hours in the heavy fighting around St. Lo and Caen, 30 of the claimed by the Americans, and the Germans declared Dempsey was attacking with several divisions.

The supreme command announced that more than 33 French towns had been liberated in the six days beginning July 6 and ending July 12.

Caught off balance by the British thrust which began Saturday night, Marshal Erwin Rommel threw five divisions into the battle and one of the biggest contests since the invasion on Normandy promised to develop as Dempsey sought to broaden his springboard salient for a major offensive out of the Normandy peninsula.

Canadian troops were not directly involved in this fighting, Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent reported. He said, however, that Ontario troops advanced a few hundred yards on their sector to occupy another hill between the Odon and Orne rivers.

ATTACK ST. LO

To the west, American troops attacked St. Lo for the seventh straight day. The Americans pushed forward about 400 yards and stood within 1 1/2 miles of the town on both the east and northwest.

Lessay, the Germans' western anchor across the Cherbourg peninsula, apparently was the Americans for the taking any time they chose. Field dispatches said patrols had entered the north side of the town after crossing the flooded Ay river.

without meeting anything more than moderate opposition.

In the centre, the Americans pointed a deadly spearhead at the road between Periers and St. Lo, capturing Remilly-Suzon after crossing the Lozon river, and driving southward toward Le Mesnil Vigot on the highway. Le Mesnil Vigot is two miles beyond Remilly.

The British 2nd army pointed its thrust west as well as south from its sector southwest of Caen in a drive to iron out the enemy wedge between Noyers and Allied held Caumont. A total maximum gain of nearly three miles had been made since the jump-off.

CLEAR WEATHER HELPS

Dispatches from the front said action flamed all the way from the fork of the Odon and Orne rivers at the southwest edge of Caen, where the British were still holding a bloody triangle, to Noyers.

One of the brightest points in the picture for the Allies, however, was clear weather. One of the biggest days for Allied airmen since D-Day was in prospect.

On both sides of St. Lo, where the Germans were fighting fiercely the Americans pushed forward about 400 yards to within 1 1/2 miles of the town on both the east and northwest.

The heaviest fighting on the whole front raged between the Odon and Orne, where the British pushed forward yesterday in a sharp offensive which took Esquay, Gravrus, Bougy and Trette-Villette. Rommel launched counter-attacks and late field dispatches said the Allies had been driven from Esquay, which now is in no man's land.

It was obvious that Montgomery's latest push was designed to reach high jump-off spots from which to launch an offensive for storming the Orne, but Rommel, anxious to delay the main battle as long as possible, reacted violently with all his local reserves.

Most of the fighting is being carried on by infantrymen, since tanks are of little use in storming these key heights and heavily wooded areas.

Police and Court Officers Take Annual Holiday

In the traffic department, Sgt. Robert Hughes will have as his substitute Constable A. E. Woodwards; Detective William McDonald will be relieved by Detective Kenneth O'Brien.

Court reporter Sidney J. Cotter will be relieved for the next three weeks by E. Barnett, court reporter from Wetaskiwin. The latter has served in the Edmonton court on several occasions. At the same time, Vernon M. Whitaker, clerk of court, resumed his duties after a three-week holiday.

Constable Ronald E. Hooper also resumed his duties in the identification department, after a fortnight's rest, while Constable J. H. Cookson left for three weeks vacation beginning Monday.

Soviet Troops Near Frontier East Prussia

Two main German defence bastions before East Prussia. Two Russian armies were smashing westward from captured Grodno, key bastion of the German defences on the approaches to East Prussia, and delayed reports indicated the Soviets might already be in the Wuwalki triangle of old Poland which Adolf Hitler annexed to the German province in 1939.

LOWER POLAND DRIVE

While the Red Army was developing its frontal push against East Prussia, Nazi broadcasts said a great Russian offensive was picking up momentum in lower Poland, and had rolled up impressive advances in the campaign to bulwark the southern flank of the Soviet forces striking toward Berlin.

Berlin said the Russian attacks from Luck and Tarnopol toward the fortress city of Lwow had developed into a full-scale offensive. A Nazi commentator said the Russians had reached Zloczow, 38 miles east of Lwow and about the same distance from Tarnopol.

"The Germans have withdrawn their lines in the Zloczow sector at the main points of Soviet pressure," Ernest Von Hammer, Berlin radio spokesman, said. He also reported a penetration along the Turja river which flows through Kowel, and said the Russians were approaching the upper Prut on the other side of the Lwow defence area.

NEARING BORDERS

At the other end of the fast-shifting battlefront in the east, "the Red Army thundered toward the borders of East Prussia, for the first time carrying land fighting to the margin of Nazi soil," a British United Press dispatch from Moscow reported.

It described Grodno, which fell to two Red Armies storming it yesterday, as the last great hedgehog base at which the Germans could have any hope of stemming the Soviet sweep south of East Prussia.

A Soviet front dispatch was quoted as referring specifically to the fighting in "The immediate neighbor hood of East Prussia," where the battle picked up intensity as the Nazis struggled to fend off the push to the threshold of their home soil.

LEADING DRIVE

Light motorized infantry and artillery were reported leading the Red Army steamroller toward East Prussia, with cavalry slashing through the forests and clearing out pockets of German resistance.

With Grodno fallen and Kaunas, pre-war Lithuanian capital and other major strongholds before East Prussia, already flanked to the south, there was no sign that the hard-pressed Nazis would be able to snatch a foothold short of their homeland frontier.

A Zurich dispatch said that Alfred Rosenberg, German minister for the overrun territories in the east, had ordered the evacuation of civilians from the frontier section of East Prussia living east of a line through Tilsit, Insterburg and Treuburg—about a fourth of the German province.

The dispatch quoted witnesses from Insterburg, main rail junction in the eastern part of the province,

Post-War Question

Value of War-Taught Skills In Civil Life Presents Problem

OTTAWA, July 17.—(CP)—Gilbert Jackson of Toronto, an economist appearing before the Commons Banking Committee today as consultant to the Canadian Retail Federation, said that one of the greatest "unanswered questions of the hour" was how valuable in civil life will be the skills taught men and women in the forces.

Wheelbarrow race (junior)—1. Mary Wesley and Connie Lapointe; 2. Isabel Jackson and Verne Selover.

Mr. Jackson said he believed that if agriculture received "anything like a break from circumstances" after the war with external markets he would expect it to absorb a considerable amount of farm labor.

Mr. McGee said farm employment programs had been disappointing after the last war and there should be steps to avoid the repetition of such conditions. There was the danger of even more intense nationalism after the war which would restrict markets.

RECEIVE TRAINING

Those now in the forces were trained in the operation of mechanized equipment and had been more highly-trained and granted a higher standard of living than the men who served in the First Great War.

"True, but a foxhole is still a foxhole," said Mr. Jackson. Mr. McGee said the men and women leaving the forces would seek a high standard of living, and it would be the job of government to see this was provided.

Answering a question about the proposed payment of children's allowances, Mr. Jackson said that if money was taken from one person and given to another welfare might be aided, but there was no increase in the aggregate wealth of the country. Expenditures by a wealthy man in building a factory might mean money would find its way into the worker's pocket.

FAVORED HEAVY TAXES

Mr. McGee said that Mr. Jackson had testified previously that it was essential the budget be balanced by ruthless taxation and curtailment of public expenditures if necessary.

Mr. Jackson said there must be a situation under which the government normally collected from the public as much as it spent. If the government was to be extravagant in expenditures it must be ruthless in taxation if it was to do its duty to the country.

W. H. Moore (L.—Ontario) raised the question of how long Mr. McGee would continue his examination.

Mr. McGee said that if he was "to be cut off" he would not object as he could complete his discussion elsewhere.

Mr. Moore said this reference reminded him that other members of parliament who were not on the committee had indicated they wished to discuss the bill in the House. The committee should report the bill quickly and give this opportunity.

Arthur Slaght (L. Parry Sound) had tabled as an exhibit a statement on the moneys loaned by private banks in Canada and abroad. In 1926 the total was $1,672,000,000, of which $1,162,000,000 was in Canada and $510,000,000 abroad. At April 30, 1944, the total was $1,159,000,000, of which $852,000,000 was in Canada and $307,000,000 abroad.

river. Some enemy planes were shot down.

The daylight assaults, coming a few hours after British bombers pounded Germany's dwindling oil supplies in co-ordinated night raids from the west and south, were made in generally favorable weather.

BRIDGES ARE HIT

More than a dozen railway bridges in a wide circle around Paris were attacked by small formations of bombers, while others went on to hit a flying bomb dump at Rilly La Montagne, south of Rheims, and rail yards at Belfort, about 35 miles west of Basle on the Swiss border.

R.A.F. Mosquito bombers, flying from bases in Britain, struck into Germany's Ruhr valley to drop two-ton blockbusters on synthetic oil plants at Hamburg, near Duisburg. While Italian-based heavy bombers raided an oil refinery at Smederevo, near Belgrade in Yugoslavia.

The Mosquitoes also mined enemy waters, and the air ministry said the night operations from Britain were made without loss.

The night raids capped one of the busiest days of two-way Allied aerial operations, in which approximately 4,000 warplanes hammered Nazi communications from Vienna, in Austria, through the Nazi shrine of Munich in southern Germany, to St. Lo on the Normandy battlefield.

HEAD SUNDAY RAIDS

A force of 1,500 Flying Fortresses, Liberators and escorting fighters headed the Allied activities Sunday with a concentrated attack on Munich and the almost equally important rail centre of Saarbrücken on the French border.

British Lancaster bombers continued the incessant campaign on flying bomb installations in northern France, while other warplanes hit German communications from the Paris area to behind the battle lines.

From the Italian front, nearly 500 Liberators and Flying Fortresses struck in Austria yesterday and fought their way through heavy cloud formations and more than 100 German fighters to bomb an airfield and other military targets at Vienna.

Twenty-one German planes were shot down over the Austrian capital at a loss of 15 American bombers. In the aerial fighting over Normandy last night, a force of 30 R.A.F. Spitfires routed about 50 German Me-109's south of Caen, shooting down five of them at a loss of two planes.

Held by Allies

ROME, July 17.—(AP)—George Nelson Page, former chief of the radio division of the Fascist Ministry of Popular Culture, has been arrested for questioning by Allied authorities. Page, who is a member of a distinguished Virginia family, was born in France, and has lived most of his life in Europe.

He was an American citizen until the Ethiopian war, when he renounced his allegiance and became an Italian subject.

Four Persons Die In East Mishaps

TORONTO, July 17.—(CP)—Four persons died in accidents in Eastern Canada during the week-end. Three of the victims were from Quebec and one from Ontario.

Tent Rental Set Now at $8 Month

A monthly rental of $8 has been fixed by rental control officials for the tent accommodation provided by the city of Edmonton on the trailer camp location on Kingsway. It was announced by civic officials Monday.

The overpayment made on the $15 monthly rental tentatively set by the city for rental of these tents will be credited against future rental charges, it was stated. This rental was set on the basis of the cost of transporting the tents from Calgary, installing floor boards, and the paying of premiums to cover the property with adequate insurance.

Recently Mayor John W. Fry stated that no further tents would be used unless in extreme necessity.

R.C.A.F. to Help North Inspection

Planes of the R.C.A.F. in the Northwest Air Command will assist Dr. G. J. Wherrett of the national department of Indian affairs to make an inspection tour of Indian settlements in the vast north area in the interests of anti-tuberculosis work.

Dr. Wherrett is leaving Tuesday by air for the far north and with other representatives of the department of Indian affairs, the party expects to be in the north for several months.

Taken to Cells From Hospital

Homer Hector LaBrecque, who received injuries Friday morning when he jumped through a window of a second-hand store after allegedly assaulting Detective Alex Bremm, and had to be rushed to hospital, was taken from that institution Monday morning and lodged in city police station cells.

During the time he spent at hospital, a police guard was maintained, with three men keeping eight-hour vigils each. As soon as his injuries permitted his removal, he was transferred to the cells.

ing Poggibonsi Thursday, had driven back one heavy counter-attack and were holding to their positions.

The heaviest German counter-thrust came in the Era Valley at Camannoli, the point of the deepest American penetration. Under cover of night the Nazis struck with a considerable force, rolling the doughboys back a few hundred yards, a spokesman said.

Later in the night the Americans lashed out again with equal fury and retook the lost ground.

German tanks which had been withdrawn from active fighting in many sectors recently were thrown back into this battle.

The Nazis also used tanks on the slopes of Monte Maggiore, but failed to halt the conquest of that high ground from which Livorno's port is in easy gun range.

TOWN HEAVILY MINED

Lorenzana, 11 miles from the coast, fell to other 5th Army troops who pushed on within a half-mile of Crispina, 12 miles east and a little north of Livorno, Usigliano, 14 miles due east of Livorno, was taken. It was found heavily mined and booby-trapped.

On the 8th Army front both eastern and western Canada tank units lunged forward yesterday in pursuit of paratroopers of the Herman Goering division who had pinned them down in rocky hill country for nearly two weeks prior to the fall of Arezzo, Doug How, Canadian Press war correspondent cabled.

He added that since June 21 the Canadians have been engaged in "alternatively loose and sticky movements."

Mr. James was first elected in 1935, from the old riding of Acadia. In 1940, he was re-elected from Edmonton. He is secretary of the Alberta Social Credit Board.

Mr. Kennedy, long active in work of the Social Credit League, has just returned from Ontario, where he did organizational work for the national Social Credit party. He was an unsuccessful candidate in Edmonton in the 1935 provincial general election, but was later elected to the House of Commons as Social Credit member for Edmonton East.

Mr. Gillies, chairman of Edmonton Co-operative Building Association, was unsuccessful in an attempt in 1942 to win a seat in the Edmonton by-election.

NEWCOMER TO ARENA

Mr. Carrigan, a newcomer to the political arena, besides being secretary of the post-war reconstruction committee, is secretary of the Legislative committee inquiring into the liquor and beer situation in Alberta. He did organizational work for the Social Credit party in the north in 1934. Before becoming attached to the post-war committee, Mr. Carrigan was assistant director of publicity for the government tourist and publicity bureau.

Mr. Manning and Mr. James, in short addresses to delegates, warned party supporters against complacency in the election, declaring it will be the hardest ever fought by Social Credit forces.

Speaking against undue optimism, the premier said his government was up against opposition which seems divided into camps each against the other, whereas in reality the parts are all leagued together.

FIGHT DUAL MONOPOLY

On the one hand, we fight the private money monopoly now dominating the country, Mr. Manning said. On the other hand, he added, we fight those who would have a state monopoly, as advocated by one of the opposition parties.

"If the country ever gets to the place where the monopoly of the state takes over, then God help Canada—she will have two monopolies to fight instead of one."

"Reports have come to us from all over the country that there are thousands of people pulling heart and soul for the Social Credit party in Alberta. They know if this bulwark breaks down, there will be nothing standing between a financial and state monopoly for years to come," the premier said.

"Don't forget they (Social Credit opposition) will spend money like water, and will import speakers by the dozen, and get lots of money—and not in nickels and dimes, either. They know that unless they stop us in Alberta, it will be a short time only before they are but a distant memory."

EAGER FOR FIGHT

"That is how things stand. I wouldn't miss this fight for the world. We'll fight a clean campaign, on a plane of statesmanship," Mr. Manning told the convention.

Earlier, Mr. Manning told delegates of his pre-election itinerary, to take him through 19 constituencies from Medicine Hat to Peace River. He described conventions and meetings at Drumheller, Camrose, Leduc and Mannville, where in every case the greatest enthusiasm prevailed and indications were of the "same old spirit of determination that marked the campaign in 1935 and since that time."

At Mannville, 98 delegates and some 50 other persons had attended an afternoon nominating convention, the premier said. This was at a country point. The whole Independent party in Edmonton could only get 70 people at an open convention where anyone interested could attend, Mr. Manning said.

"At Drumheller, the Social Credit nomination has gone to P.O. Gordon E. Taylor, who is home on embarkation leave. Mr. Taylor has the election there 'in the bag,'" said the premier (P.O. Taylor was Social Credit M.L.A. for Drumheller in the last Legislature. He joined the R.C.A.F. after the 1943 session.)

ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE

A most enthusiastic audience greeted him at a public meeting at Leduc, Mr. Manning said. The hall where the meeting was held had been packed to the doors.

Jibbing opposition parties, Mr. James told the meeting that Independent party members have said they will take 75 per cent of the seats in the south, and will hold their seats north of Calgary. On top of that, Elmer E. Roper, C.C.F. party leader, has declared the C.C.F. will take every seat in the Legislature. "I don't know what we're doing here at all," Mr. James declared.

"We're in for a tremendous fight," he warned. "During and after the election we will come to an issue which must be faced. The issue is between liberty and state control."

"You and I have a great responsibility. You are the people who decide the fate of future generations, and whether or not this country will be a slave state."

"We have today between 600,000 and 700,000 men overseas, who will fight right through to Berlin. Some will not come back, but thousands will, tired and weary, having won the military battle."

"What are we going to say to them, and what are they going to say to us? When they come back after fighting National Socialism, and see we have let it come in by the back door here, we will hang our heads in shame."

"There is one issue and one issue only—the free democracy that Canada must have, or else turn the country over to a bureau, or a series of bureaus and you and I will be cogs in a machine—that is the issue, and it will make the difference between a free Canada and a slave state."

David Duncan, president, Edmonton Social Credit Constituency Association, was elected convention chairman.

After giving unanimous approval to the party slate, delegates accorded a rousing reception to nominees as the meeting concluded.

French Patriots Waiting to Strike

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS

AT THE FRENCH FRONTIER IN SWITZERLAND, July 17.—(AP)—Deep inside France almost within striking distance of Vichy, French Partisans are holding a 140-square mile area and quietly waiting for the Allied battlefront to move close enough to warrant their going into action.

Until that day arrives, these Partisans, trained by regular army commanders, are limiting themselves to patrols far from their bases, sabotaging railways and factories, kidnapping small German units.

A person who managed to visit the district under the guise of taking medical supplies, said at least 10,000 men are holding the district with the aid of stolen German, some British and old French army equipment.

The Germans have made only one limited effort to break through and then they were beaten in a skirmish of a few minutes.

Six Die in Fire

DENVER, July 17.—(AP)—Six persons perished early last night in a fire that raged through a scenic boat-ride tunnel in Elitch's Gardens, a Denver amusement park. Only one boat was passing through the tunnel, known as the Old Mill, at the time. Four of the victims were occupants, and the other two believed to be attendants employed by the park. Origin of the fire was undetermined.

H.M.C.S. Haida Fattens Score In New Clash

LONDON, July 17.—(CP)—H.M.C.S. Haida, Canadian destroyer which is a veteran of many Channel battles, fattened her score of kills when with two other destroyers she pounced on a small force of German ships off the French coast, sank two and left a third sinking, the admiralty disclosed Saturday.

The Allies came off with neither damage nor casualties, said the admiralty, announcing that the action took place early Saturday morning near the Ile de Croix, south-west of Lorient.

ROUTINE PATROL

A communiqué said that while on a routine patrol, which has been the Haida's beat for months, the Canadian destroyer, commanded by Capt. H. L. De Wolf, D.S.O., R.C.N., of Bedford, N.S., with H.M.E. Tartar, commanded by Cmdr. B. Jones, D.S.O., D.S.C., of Bucks, England, and the Polish destroyer Blyskawica ran into an enemy force engaging in battle practice.

Salvoes from the Haida, Tartar and their Polish ally pounded two armed merchant ships under the waves and a direct torpedo hit left an armed tug burning and sinking in 40 minutes or action.

The Haida, noted for previous victories off the French coast, has a fighting record which no other Allied destroyer in those waters can match. She started her war against the German navy last April when in company with the Athabaskan she began picking off Elbing class destroyers attempting to run the channel blockade.

When she was with the Athabaskan when that destroyer was blown up in action and avenged the loss by getting two of the enemy.

Her toughest battle came early in June when in company with her sister ship H.M.C.S. Huron she sank two German destroyers, more heavily armed and speedier than the Canadian Tribals.

This action blazed for four hours and was described by naval observers as the hottest fight that Canadian ships ever fought.

133 Candidates Nominated For Alberta Seats

Harold Anderson, Winterburn, for Stony Plain constituency; Carl Colvin, farmer, for Sedgewick; T. A. Raynor, farmer, in Cypress, and George Morrison, Rocky Mountain House. The Independent Party nominated Neil Nelson at Ponoka.

Labor-Progressives named Mrs. Hazel Broadbent, wife of a Leduc district farmer, to run in that riding, while W. J. Williams, secretary-manager of Edmonton branch, Canadian Legion, has been nominated to run in the city on a Veterans' ticket.

Enumeration in Edmonton is proceeding according to schedule and will be completed this week, according to H. H. Crawford, city returning officer. It is expected enumerators will list many more than the 59,685 Edmonton voters entitled to cast ballots in the 1940 general election.

At government headquarters, Robert A. Andison, chief electoral officer, is supervising distribution of 3,500 ballot boxes to be sent to each poll in the province. This task is expected to be finished sometime this week.

SOLDIER VOTE

Government officers are conferring on plans for soldier and reserve soldier voting, but as yet plans have not been announced. Army reservists camping at Sarcee, near Calgary, during the second camp period, will be in training on Aug. 8, election day. It has been suggested that these men vote at advance polls, but in the case of many reservists from smaller centres, no advance poll has been arranged for. A decision is expected to be announced shortly on the procedure to be followed.

It is understood Premier Manning has issued orders that every person entitled to vote shall be provided with means to do so, which means some solution to the reserve army camp problem will be reached soon.

STOCKHOLM, July 17.—(AP)—

The Stockholm Tidningen published yesterday a story which did not give the source of its information, saying the robot bombs weighing as much as 10 tons and capable of being shot through the stratosphere as far as New York had been concentrated in large numbers in western Jutland, Denmark.

The newspaper said it was unable to confirm the report but "this information has not been grasped from the air."

(Stockholm newspapers frequently have been an outlet for propaganda stories about secret weapons which the Germans have planted with sources coming into contact with Swedish reporters.)

10,000 ROBOT BOMBS

Tidningen said it was informed the Nazis had assembled about 10,000 robot bombs in western Jutland "of a new type which surpass anything yet known in destructive power."

"The weight of the bombs is reported to be about 10 tons with a speed up to 700 miles per hour. The robot moves through the stratosphere at an altitude of over 65,000 feet and, according to information, should be able to reach New York."

"Because of its great flying altitude and speed, the new robot is beyond reach of anti-aircraft fire or fighter planes."

The explosive effect of the reported new robot was said by the newspaper to be possibly 30 times that of regular bombs, and possibly could "annihilate everything within a radius slightly over three miles."

14,000 Japs Killed In Hengyang Fight

CHUNGKING, July 17.—(AP)—The Chinese high command announced last night that 14,000 Japanese had been killed in the fighting for the Canton-Hankow rail junction of Hengyang between June 23 and July 14, but admitted that Japanese forces in the offensive in Kwangtung province to the south were attacking Yingtak, 70 miles north of Canton.

It was considered here Japanese failure to take Hengyang would be a severe moral blow to the enemy. The Canton-based Kwangtung drive, aimed at capture of the remaining stretch of railway to complete a 1,000-mile north to south band across China, appeared ominous.

British Sub Bags Seven Foe Vessels

LONDON, July 17.—(CP)—A British submarine recently destroyed or sank seven enemy coastal supply ships in a 20-minute attack upon an Aegean harbor, the admiralty disclosed last night. Surfacing within a mile of the breakwater, the submarine sank two ships, destroyed five on the slipways, and damaged several smaller vessels.

It was certain there were no robot installations in western Jutland.

A competent military expert, on the other hand, said it was well established that the Germans have been experimenting with new robots capable of traversing a much greater distance than those currently in use against southern England.

Premier King Too Generous To Opponents

L'EPICHAQUE, Que., July 17.—(CP)—Premier Godbout said here Saturday that Prime Minister Mackenzie King's "principal fault" was that "he was too generous towards his political adversaries."

Mr. Godbout was addressing a political rally held in support of Dr. C. E. Germain, Liberal candidate for L'Assomption constituency in the Quebec general elections Aug. 8.

"In a few months, maybe four or six, I don't know, the federal government will ask you for a renewal of its mandate," he said. "It will be for you to judge. I shall judge myself. I do not agree with all that has been done in the federal administration and I shall say it when the time comes."

NO SMALL POLITICS

The premier added: "The principal fault of Mr. King is that he was too generous towards his political adversaries because he does not want to make small politics in wartime."

"Take for example the case of Mr. C. P. McTague, the former chairman of the National War Labor Board, who caused so much trouble in all parts of the country by his attitude at the head of that most important body. He is the same Mr. McTague who has since become the organizer-in-chief of the Progressive Conservative party which is asking for overseas conscription."

Newest V.C. Winner Says His Men 'A Wonderful Lot'

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, July 17.—(CP)—Ask Maj. Jack Mahony of New Westminster, B.C., Canada's newest winner of the Victoria Cross, about the award and he will tell all about his men—"a wonderful lot."

"To hear people talk, you'd think it was a one-man show," said Maj. Mahony, who won the Empire's highest gallantry award for refusing to relinquish a vital bridgehead on the Mella river after he was wounded three times.

Contending the action was no "one-man show," Maj. Mahony declared "it was a perfect company action. Every man, officer, N.C.O. and other rank knew his job and did it despite everything the enemy tried."

This was the reaction of the former employee of the Vancouver Province who asked about the award as he attended a dinner given Saturday night by his regiment, the Westminster Regiment (motor), of New Westminster, B.C.

"We were well trained and confident," he said. "The thought came to me time and time again during the show. 'What a wonderful lot they are.' Lord, no it wasn't just me."

"Take Douglas (Lieut. R. H. Douglas of New Westminster), who, if any man did, made the action possible. Did you know that in addition to giving the platoon terrific leadership he knocked out one self-propelled gun and personally accounted for three machine-gun positions, one after the other—just like that? Yes, he's just one of the fellows who won the battle."

World's greatest NICKEL MINE WAS OPENED

TO MEET INDUSTRY'S GROWING DEMAND FOR CANADIAN NICKEL

DURING WORLD WAR I, the demand for Canadian Nickel for battleship armor and other war uses multiplied rapidly. Plant and equipment for Nickel production were vastly expanded to meet the demands of the Allies.

At the end of World War I, Nickel's war markets disappeared. Yet in less than ten years after the close of the war, this industry's entire output was being devoted to the needs of a world at peace.

Step by step, new peacetime industrial markets were developed throughout the world, and these added up to ever-increasing totals. By 1924 the demand for Canadian Nickel had substantially increased. Shaft sinking was begun on the Frood—the world's greatest Nickel mine.

Today Canadian Nickel is again devoted to war purposes and again the industry looks to the future with confidence. Plans are ready to develop and expand old and new peacetime markets, so that the Nickel industry may continue, through its own initiative and enterprise, to make still greater contributions to Canada's welfare.

No Liberal Candidates

The action of the Edmonton Liberal Association in cancelling a nominating convention which had been called for July 21 will be regarded by most Liberals as a wise and timely step.

The party has had no leader nor provincial convention for nearly five years and nothing could so bring Liberalism into disrepute as a half-hearted and piecemeal campaign which might create the quite erroneous impression that Liberalism was a waning and disintegrating force.

Liberalism is thoroughly alive in Alberta. It has numerous and powerful adherents. But its organization has been systematically disrupted by some of its leaders.

The Liberal executive for the province and the federal Liberal members, for some unknown reason, have successfully prevented a provincial convention being held to elect a leader in place of E. L. Gray.

Mr. Gray, it will be recalled, deserted the Liberal leadership in 1940 in the midst of an election campaign and ran as an independent party candidate, meeting a well-merited defeat.

Since then, while Liberalism itself flourishes, Liberal organization has been smothered.

The circumstances indicate that a thorough housecleaning is long past due in the Alberta Liberal Association.

Mrs. W. J. Dick

There is hardly one war or welfare organization in Edmonton that will not feel a tremendous loss in the sudden and untimely death of Mrs. W. J. Dick. There is hardly an Edmonton citizen who will not feel a sense of personal desolation.

For the patriotic and humanitarian activities of this great and gifted Christian lady were extended over a wide and varied field. Her capacity for friendship was immense.

Long a divisional commissioner in the Girl Guides, an officer of the Council of Social Agencies, and a supporter of the Creche and other organizations, she had, during the war years, assumed further important responsibilities in the Citizens' Volunteer Bureau and as liaison director of the War Services Council.

Mrs. Dick's heart was quite as large as her splendid organizing mind and no compassionate burden was too great or too small for her to cheerfully assume. She lived her full and magnificent life for others and those others, today, are fallen under the burden of a melancholy almost too heavy to be translated into words.

All Edmonton will extend to her family most cordial sympathies and share their sorrow and regret.

Homogenized Milk

The experience of Edmonton mothers since the federal order forbidding the sale of homogenized milk was promulgated is such that Ottawa should be asked to reconsider its stand in this matter.

Edmonton children may have ultra-cultivated tastes, which is not likely, but the truth is that after becoming accustomed to the homogenized product, they do not take to plain milk. They find it unpalatable and mothers are unable to make them drink it.

Thus, milk, an invaluable food, is slowly being withdrawn from the diet of Edmonton children and, presumably, from the diets of children all across Canada.

The case is somewhat different in the East where there are large Jersey herds whose milk has a naturally higher butterfat content. But there are comparatively few Jerseys in this country. As a result, the health of children is bound to suffer.

No trick of arithmetic can show that the total butterfat saving in the ban on homogenized milk is of much account in a national way. Individually, it means a lot.

This order should be reconsidered.

New Records To Be Made

As compulsory savings loans are to be no longer collected along with income taxes, the voluntary purchase of Victory bonds, certificates and stamps will have to be on a broader scale than last year. It is estimated that through these sales $320,000,000, perhaps more, will have to be obtained.

Last year of course set an all-time record in the purchase of these securities. The total is given as $2,947,290,000. Purchases this year will have to go somewhat beyond the $3,250,000,000 mark if the requirements are to be met.

This increased buying, it is also stated, will have to be done by individuals. Corporations are not counted on as being able to buy more heavily than they did last year, and the individuals who comprise these corporations, along with businessmen, farmers, wage and salary earners, and others will have to supply the additional three hundred and more millions which will be needed.

It is estimated that 2,500,000 persons are now holding war and Victory bonds, and 3,500,000 are holding savings certificates. Upwards of one-quarter of the entire population of the Dominion are therefore bond-holders, and one-third of the population are certificate-holders. Obviously Canadians have in the last five years become "bond conscious" as they never were before. Moreover larger numbers have been buyers at every bond selling campaign. This growing momentum is assurance that the larger sales which are necessary this year can be made.

There is further assurance of this in the saving bank deposits. Last March these deposits were beyond the $2,000,000,000 mark, and as they had been growing steadily the figure is now no doubt considerably higher.

There is no ground therefore to fear that the $3,267,000,000 minimum objective of bond and certificate sales cannot be reached. Our people have acquired the security-buying habit in a marked degree, and collectively they certainly have the money.

"We Won the War"

There has been some occasional grumbling in certain London newspapers at the prominence given to American forces, as compared with that given to British. Happily the grumbling is not general or even representative, for the British people are not built that way.

But the British information service in New York has been keeping an eye open, and as if to anticipate such complaints has emphasized its belief that Americans in the majority are anxious to keep the balance. It says they are making "conscientious and successful efforts to see that full credit is given to the parts played by the forces of both nations." So, to offset any chance of grumbling, many newspapers on both sides of the Atlantic are emphasizing the parts played by the other fellows.

That is all very good. To say that "we won the war" vocalists will not appear later on is to ignore human nature. They will occur just as certainly as succeeding sunrises. But those who have kept abreast of the news since 1939 can assess the picture fairly, and give credit to everyone. He will be able to evaluate the magnificent achievements of the leading United Nations powers, but give credit to everyone, and give credit also to the incomparable courage of the underground movements, the rallying of Norwegian, Dutch, Polish and other exiled forces who were even deprived of a country and actually had to borrow one for the time being.

The war is global and not in any sense eccentric, to use a military term. Every part of it has its impact on every other part, and all strategy intermeshes.

If that principle is generally followed in the public thinking of the United Nations there need be no worry about self-appointed "we won the war" apostles after the peace.

The Indictment of Roosevelt

Grounds Upon Which
G.O.P. Will Attempt to Defeat President
By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Republican party has commenced to fight this year's national election on purely domestic issues. If possible, it will keep foreign policy out of the campaign but even if foreign policy is an issue, as it seems highly probable from the recent utterances of Democrats, the Republicans will subordinate it to their main attack on Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal.

An analysis of the Republican platform, apart from its vague foreign policy plank, shows that it is conceived as a detailed and devastating attack on the domestic policies of the present administration. Mr. Roosevelt is accused in the platform and in the speeches of the men who made it of undermining and almost destroying the American system of free enterprise. He is accused of establishing a huge and proliferating bureaucracy which is regimenting American life. He is accused of total failure to solve the economic problems of the nation or to end unemployment until it was cured temporarily by the war.

Considering the Republican party's record—its tariff policies which were a major factor in producing the world depression, its retirement at a time when the nation lay in complete economic collapse amidst closed banks and growing breadlines—the present indictment of the administration contains a certain note of irony. Nevertheless, the Republican party has ample grounds for criticism. What the American people and the world want to know, however, is how the Republicans will cure the obvious defects of the present system.

The platform does not answer this question very clearly for it is full of obvious contradictions. These are the result of an attempt to appease numerous conflicting pressure groups each of which has been promised something, even if one promise denies another.

The most egregious example of this strategy concerns foreign trade policy, a matter of vital concern to other nations in the world. The foreign trade plan begins by assuring farmers, workers and industrialists that:

"We will establish and maintain a fair protective tariff on competitive products so that the standard of living of our people shall not be impaired through the importation of commodities produced abroad by labor or producers functioning upon lower standards than our own."

This is the theory of pure protection of the Smoot-Hawley variety and, if implemented, would make any reduction in United States tariffs and any increase in trade impossible.

But in the next paragraph the party promises to join other nations in "every co-operative effort to remove unnecessary and destructive barriers to international trade." Then, having pledged itself to foreign trade, the platform in the next sentence seems to strike at the root of the Hull reciprocal trade program, by declaring that tariffs must be modified only by "reciprocal bilateral trade agreements approved by Congress." History shows that the Hull tariff has seldom been modified seriously by Congress but only by executive action taken under the broad grants of congressional power as provided in the Hull program.

Mr. Dewey at once recognized the total conflict in the foreign trade policy, admitting that it was open to dual interpretation and he added:

"My interpretation of the plank is that its essence is in the part which says that the United States will participate and work with other nations to promote international trade in the interest of peace."

He promised to support the Hull reciprocal trade treaty system, insisting that it had always been a Republican policy (even though many Republicans voted against its renewal in Congress). Mr. Dewey's statement is deeply encouraging to advocates of trade but he faces a sharp fight with the protectionists of his party.

The next conflict in the platform is seen in the farm policy which demands for farmers "freedom from regimentation by an impractical Washington bureaucracy." But the policy promised at the same time support prices, commodity loans, with such other economic means as to assure an income to agriculture that is fair and equitable. This would all involve a bureaucracy and regimentation of, indeed, is nothing but a continuation of the present government's system of bonusing and regulating agriculture. The plank further indicates that crop restrictions, like those enforced by the present government, must be continued.

Most remarkable of all the Republican planks is that promising to "terminate rationing, price fixing and other emergency powers."

and condemning "the freeing of wage rates at arbitrary levels." This obvious bid for labor votes means the repeal of the price and wage ceiling and, if carried out at present, would assure the United States of a disastrous inflation. Meanwhile the plank will certainly encourage the present labor attack on the wage ceiling and may influence the government towards relaxing the existing controls.

While the New Deal's centralization of power and its increasing intervention in society are everywhere condemned, the Republican party has accepted most of its social reforms, all of which involve centralization and intervention and, in fact, has promised a large extension of present social security measures. It also promises to reduce taxes after the war, rejects "the theory of restoring prosperity through government spending and deficit financing," and insists on "fiscal economy."

The platform accepts the labor reform laws of the New Deal but promises to enforce them without the "trickery" of the present bureaucracy and without using them for political purposes.

As a final thrust at the long-enduring Roosevelt regime the party favors a constitutional amendment preventing any president filling more than two terms of office.

Princess Elizabeths of History

England's Royal Families
Have Had Six of That Name
By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

Not that Princess Elizabeth is of age it is interesting to review our history of the other Princess Elizabeths.

The first Princess Elizabeth of York was born during the troublous Wars of the Roses. When her father, Edward IV, was forced to flee from his enemies out of the country, the little Plantagenet princess with her mother found sanctuary at Westminster Abbey for a time.

Her childhood was a disturbed and sorry one. Sometimes she enjoyed the pleasures of peace at her father's country. Sometimes she wandered with her mother and small brothers and sisters as a fugitive, when the Lancastrians were in power.

When her little brother Edward became king she must have wondered what was in store for her. Then her uncle, the infamous Richard III, murdered his nephew, seized the crown, and even proposed to marry Elizabeth. This was abhorrent to the young girl, who was terrified in case she would be forced into a loathed marriage with the tyrant.

But by this time the country was tired of the long years of civil war, and was glad to hail as its king the man who vanquished the detested Richard—Henry Tudor, Duke of Richmond.

And what more fitting ending to the long struggle between the Red and the White Roses than that he, a descendant of the House of Lancaster, should wed the Princess Elizabeth, the White Rose of York?

Anne Boleyn's Daughter
Granddaughter of the first Elizabeth of York was another Princess Elizabeth. She, too, had a difficult and unhappy girlhood, for her mother, the beautiful Anne Boleyn, had been beheaded, and her father, Henry VIII, immediately married again.

This little Tudor princess led a secluded life of retirement in the country, studying Greek, Latin and theology with her tutor, Roger Ascham, never dreaming of the great destiny which was in store for her.

Then her father died, and her half-brother became Edward VI, the boy king. He died young, and her half-sister Mary reigned for five years. At Mary's death the country, weary of the religious strife which had been raging through the last three reigns, was glad to welcome to the throne the quiet, red-headed young Princess Elizabeth, who promised tolerance to every kind of religious belief.

Her reign of 45 years was one of great magnificence. Bureaucracy and statesmen helped her to guide the country through the difficult paths of home and foreign politics, and the "Elizabethan Age" became one of the most glorious in our history.

Three Princesses
The daughter of King James I, born at Falkland, was also called Elizabeth. This vivacious and captivating princess, on her marriage to the King of Bohemia came to be known as "Queen of Heaven." Her son was the dashing Prince Rupert who led the Cavaliers in many engagements against the Roundheads. His mother spent the last years of her life in London, and was buried in the Abbey.

The fourth Princess Elizabeth, also a Stuart, spent a happy childhood. She was the daughter of the ill-fated Charles I. Broken-hearted at his execution and separated from her mother, she tried to find consolation in books and studies. When only 15 she died a prisoner in Carlisle Castle and was buried on the Isle of Wight.

There was a fifth Princess Elizabeth who was the daughter of George III. She was interested in drawing and painting, and was married to the Landgrave of Hesse-Homburg. Her work for the poor is remembered.

Strong Proof Bouchard is Right

B. K. Sandwell in Toronto
Saturday Night

Senator Bouchard's speech is pretty certain to rank among the historic utterances of the Canadian parliament—the more certain because the elements which resented it were so ill-advised as to demand his dismissal from his Quebec Hydro position, and so powerful as to be able to compel it.

It is possible that, that these elements acted under the pressure of some urgent necessity. The elements which share the view quoted by Mr. Bouchard from a speech of the Charge d'Affaires of the Apostolic Delegation in Canada—the view that French-Canadian Catholics must work for "a state completely Catholic, because such a country only can represent the ideal of human progress, and because Catholic people has the right and the duty to organize itself socially and politically according to the tenets of its faith"—these elements have been making fairly rapid progress in Quebec for about a generation, but there are indications that they are about to meet with some more substantial resistance within French Canada itself. It is not of course by any means a secret of the Catholic faith that a Catholic majority in a limited portion of the territory of a nation which is by majority non-Catholic must "organize itself socially and politically" for that obviously involves secession from the larger non-Catholic nation. And there is a large and growing element among the French-Canadians of Quebec an element which will be greatly reinforced when the service men and women return, which is beginning to realize that the socio-political doctrines of Mr. Mozzini and of a great part of the French-Canadian clergy can lead nowhere except to secession, and which does not desire to see those doctrines triumph.

This element, I have said, is large and growing and is obviously likely to be strengthened by anything which breaks down French-Canadian isolation. But has lacked courage and outspoken leaders, and these leaders cannot be found among the active politicians because it is too easy for such leadership to be represented to the less informed voters as constituting treason to the race and even to the church.

But Mr. Bouchard, retiring from active politics in the prime of life, with a long record of electoral victories and of useful public service, and an equally long record of devotion to the national unity of Canada, was obviously the ideal man to provide the leadership, to constitute the rallying point, and to raise the standard of complete inter-racial tolerance and harmony. If Mr. Bouchard could be, so to speak, knocked on the head at the sign of the assumption of such leadership, it might well be hoped that it would be a long time before anybody else would dare to make a similar attempt. Dismissal from a public position involving a great deal of power and a salary of $18,000 a year may have seemed like a very good idea to Mr. Duplessis and the other politicians and journalists who demanded it.

But I am not at all sure that they counted the full cost or realized the very limited scope of their victory. Mr. Bouchard is out of the Hydro. But he is not out of journalism, and he is not out of the senate (nobody seems to have thought of impeaching him), and he is not in my opinion in the least likely to be terrorized or silenced. And he has been made to appear as a martyr for the cause of liberal thought and broad Canadianism.

different opinion of even these later Conservative years of his career, in which it was the habit at the time to describe him as brilliant but erratic and not quite safe. Mrs. Roosevelt would hardly remember against Mr. Churchill the long series of speeches as an Independent Conservative, in which he warned his country and his party against the German danger.

Speaking on the subject of social insurance, Mr. Churchill, in March 1943, declared: "The prime parent of all national insurance schemes is, of course, Lloyd George. I was his lieutenant in those early days." In those early days under Asquith and Lloyd George he helped to establish a minimum wage in the sweated industries, organized the labor exchanges and defended Lloyd George's old-age pensions. This old-age pension system he liberalized nearly 20 years later as Chancellor of the Exchequer in a Conservative government in 1925.

In that speech of March, 1943, Mr. Churchill probably did not mind mentioning that 35 years earlier, around 1908, he enlisted the expert services of William Beveridge, now Sir William Beveridge. All in all, it is plain that Mr. Churchill's mind in the last 60 years has not been always along the bleak lines of reaction.

During the administration of Herbert Asquith and David Lloyd George, in the earlier peace years, he was Colonial Under-Secretary, President of the Board of Trade and Home Secretary. In 1911 he became First Lord of the Admiralty and held office into the first year of war. In the later war years he was Minister of Munitions and Secretary of State for War.

Churchill came back to Parliament in 1924 as an Independent Conservative. In the ensuing 16 years, until he was called to his present position, he held office for only five years as Chancellor of the Exchequer, as against his uninterrupted 16 years in office as a member of the Liberal party. For that matter, we now have a

Japanese Sent Here As Agents

By J. A. Paton, M.L.A. in The Vancouver Sun

Fifty years ago the Japanese started to put in effect their 2600-year-old ideology based on the imperial pronouncement or rescript of that day: "We shall build our capital all over the world. We shall make the world our dominion."

Then, for the first time in modern history Japan's gates were opened for a controlled emigration. Emigration companies were formed with branches in Canada and the United States. Selected emigrants were then sent abroad. They were bound by treaties to return to Japan and male children were subjected to the conscription laws of Japan. This accounts for the frequent visit of the Japanese to their homeland and for the sudden disappearance of the young men of military age for the several years they spent in Japan in obedience to the conscription demands of their country.

On coming to Canada they operated under the type (chigi) system and they were financed by the Japanese government in their operations. Coming as an advanced party they were subject to severe discipline and any possible miscreants among their ranks were hustled back to Japan.

The Japanese were forced on Canada in the face of the most strenuous opposition on the part of the government of British Columbia over a period of 10 years, until the gentlemen's agreement was reached in 1908, and the terms of this agreement were fought until the quota number was reduced to 150 a few years before the war.

Following the signing of the agreement the Japanese attempted to increase their quota by every possible means and they were regular business, engaged in by the Japanese themselves of forging passports and birth certificates to permit of illegal entry.

Most of the first wave were fishermen and a definite and concerted drive was made to gain entry into that industry. It is quite possible that by the use of money they were able to assist in promoting a strike on the Fraser, which immediately opened the door to this horde of experienced fishermen to gain entry into that field of endeavor and it was their first victory.

With one foot in the door and the backing of the Japanese Empire behind them they were soon able to take over the fishing. That was the time of the advent of the gas engine and with superior financing they were able to put better boats in the water and with this influence were also able to gain entry for themselves and their families into the canneries, which soon became a closed shop, each under the control of a type.

Immediately upon their arrival and in plain view (it was common talk 40 years ago) they began a hydrographic survey of the coast line of British Columbia, just as they did later of the coast line to the south and the islands of the Pacific.

They have been directed from Tokyo since their arrival and every act, in the light of present-day knowledge, has been a warlike one. Any idea that those born in Canada could ever be Canadians is disputed from the fact that all families have sureties for them in Japan and we now know enough of the Japanese to realize that they would not be any less exacting in their demands on their people than their Axis partner, Hitler.

There is quite a history being compiled of Japan's war activities over the past 100 years, since the Meiji restoration, when the doctrine, "the eight corners of the world under a Japanese roof," and "the imperial way" were formulated.

They have gone a long way towards carrying out the program set out in the Tanaka Memorial of 1927, which states, roughly, that Japan must conquer Europe and Asia in order to conquer China, Japan must conquer China and in order to conquer China Japan must first conquer Manchuria and Mongolia. At that time they had already taken Formosa and the islands lying between; the Kwantung peninsula and that part of the Sakhalin Islands only the French-Canadians of Quebec and the Marianas, Carolines and Marshall, the latter since wrested from them by the United States forces.

The Japanese were stopped in their first attempt at world conquest when they could not penetrate South Africa, which would have given them control of the Atlantic and Pacific when coupled with Australia. Penetration to both of these countries was stopped by the adoption of the Natal Act as a step to indiscriminate immigration.

Actually, it should be kept in mind that for the greater part of his most active political career Winston Churchill has been a Liberal. It is true that he entered Parliament in 1900, at the age of 26, as a Conservative. But in 1906 he seceded to the Liberals and remained with them for 16 years.

From the New York Times

Mr. Roosevelt's knowledge of the public career of Winston Churchill is not nearly as intimate as it might be if one may judge from her statement. Commenting on the Prime Minister's friendly words for the Franco regime in his recent speech, Mrs. Roosevelt said there is no reason for surprise, since that is the way Mr. Churchill's mind has been working the last sixty years.

The implication that young Churchill began thinking seriously about world affairs at the age of 9 may not be very important. What is surely important is the assumption that Mr. Churchill also has been a Tory and that his natural instinct is to line up with the Con-

Civil Service

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

"Despite its blemishes, it is generally agreed abroad, as at home, that our Civil Service is the finest in the world. The servant is impersonal and impartial, disinterested, loyal and competent. In its higher reaches the service motive has largely displaced the profit motive. It by force. But we have a right to be interested in the decision and the process by which it is arrived at, and those of us who desire the unity of all Canada and are willing to make all possible concessions to the legitimate views and interests of French Quebec have a right to wish well to those who in that province are seeking to keep alive the corresponding desire for Canadian unity."

Speech by Premier Won't Be Broadcast

OTTAWA, July 17. — (CP) — A speech Prime Minister Mackenzie King is scheduled to deliver Aug. 7 at a dinner marking the 25th anniversary of his leadership of the Liberal party will not be broadcast. It was announced last night. The statement added that Mr. King felt any broadcast which might be made "would almost certainly be construed as having a political motive and as such might give rise to political controversy."

Wants Corsets!

LONDON, July 17. — (CP) — Rescued from her home by a flying bomb, a middle-aged British woman asked a policeman "Will you go upstairs to the bedroom and get my corsets as I don't feel comfortable without them." "I got them for her," the policeman said later. "But I was scared going up those stairs. I thought the house was going to fall on me."

Ronnie Lee Kuykendall of Indianapolis, Ind., was born with a "V" marking between his eyes.

Eastern Canada Tank Crews First Into Battered Caen

By WILLIAM STEWART

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE, July 17. — (CP) — The first tank crews to enter the littered streets of Caen were those of an eastern Canadian regiment commanded by a Lieutenant-Colonel from Ottawa who led his Shermans into the city in a scout car.

(A later dispatch from Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported tanks of the Sherbrooke Fusilier regiment of Sherbrooke, Que., supported three infantry regiments—the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders of Cornwall, Ont., the North Nova Scotia Highlanders of Amherst, N.S., and the Highland Light Infantry for Galt, Ont.—in the Caen battle.)

The Shermans climbed onto the asphalt highway leading into Caen a week ago Sunday afternoon after they had helped Canadian infantry in their violent battles through German village positions to the northwest of the city.

PIERCED ENGAGEMENTS

Some of these battles were as fierce as the fights which raged over the same ground the day after the Canadians landed in Normandy as they advanced on the Carpiquet airfield and encountered heavy enemy resistance and then one counter-attack after another.

This time the German youth of an SS division had been beaten into the ground by terrific artillery concentrations in front of the Canadian advance and were on the defensive. However, they still clung to every inch of their ground and fought even after the Shermans overran their intricate trench systems, machine-gunned them and fired point-blank at their positions with high-explosive shells.

The tanks left their assembly area near the little village of Les Buissons, one squadron moving with the troops marching towards Gruchy and a second behind the infantry who fought the bloody battle of Buron.

SUPPORTED ATTACK

The squadron supporting the Gruchy attack—whose commander later suffered a broken back from shell blast while he stood by his tank after it had gone over a mine—helped to overcome the enemy defence by working around the western outskirts of the village and blasting the Germans from their flank and rear.

The squadron with the Buron attack force got around deep German anti-tank ditches behind which there were interlaced trenches occupied by the fanatical Adolf Hitler soldiers and fought south to the dominating ground without which the enemy could not hold the village.

Maj. Sydney Radley-Walters of Limousin, Que., commanding the squadron, carried out the attack on the high southern fields.

Say Japs Fighting

To the Last Man

CHUNGKING, July 17. — (AP) — Japanese troops holding out in the main Yunnan province base of Tengchung above the Burma Road "appear to be resisting to the last man," a Chinese communique said last night. The city, whose fall to the Chinese would be a major success in the drive to reopen a land route between India and China, has been reported in flames after a bombing by American medium bombers.

Uphold Postmaster On Magazine Ban

WASHINGTON, July 17. — (AP) — District Judge T. W. Davidson Saturday upheld Postmaster General Walker's decision to revoke Esquire magazine's second class mail permit. The publishers, who estimate it will cost them $500,000 a year if the ruling stands, already have announced their intention of appealing. The second class mailing permit gave the magazine the benefit of special low rates.

Confers With Pope

VATICAN CITY, July 17. — (AP) — Premier Ivanoe Bonomi had a 40-minute audience with Pope Pius yesterday and later conferred for 30 minutes with Luigi Cardinal Magliano, Papal Secretary of State. (The Vichy radio Saturday reported the "serious illness" of Cardinal Magliano, saying his duties as Papal Secretary of State had been transferred to another cardinal.)

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

CUSTOMERS who took in the Saturday and Sunday attractions at Renfrew Park, at least had no cause to complain about lack of variety, although the Arrow-Yank affair may have appeared rather drab as compared with yesterday's hectic session between Signals and Dodgers.

But then five successive walks are not the most common occurrence in baseball, and especially when they are preceded by a strikeout, three errors, a double, another pass, a wild pitch and a pair of stolen bases.

When Elmer Thomas was shifted from the slab in the fifth inning, four runs had been ticked off and a potential fifth was on third for the Yanks, whose sole contribution aside from a reasonable start on a track meet, had been Manuel Dorsky's second double of the night.

Willbur Ray, Yanks' new pitcher from Lakeland, Florida, via Fairbanks, must have been very favorably impressed with the kindness and courtesy of opposing choppers in the local senior loop. Thomas walked him on his initial trip to the plate in the senior-making heat and Bill Gauf did the honors on his second appearance in the same frame.

IT'S NOT BASEBALL! EXHIBITIONS such as staged in the eighth inning of yesterday's game, can be dispensed with very nicely in the senior circuit. And Lieutenant Archer set a new high for managers by his outburst and may have suffered a corresponding loss of prestige as a result. Umpire John Ducey was indeed lenient in his case.

Bert Culver received a couple of walking ducats yesterday, but only the one to first base goes into the records, although both were handed out by the umpire. However, that one pass lifted Culver's total for the year to 14. And by the way, the catch to Signal's second sacker made off Brant for the third out in the fourth chapter was a beauty.

Ralph Morgan collected two more credits for the run-batted-in column and raised his allotment to date to 12, which ties him with Mel Ottem. Manuel

10th Straight

Henry Martell, Edmonton's ace shotmaker, took the Highlands trophy for the 10th time in a row yesterday afternoon following his victory over Johnny Loucks in the 36-hole final at Edmonton Golf and Country Club.

Dorsky, of the Yanks, gathered in a pair on Saturday and is now leading the procession with a total of 12.

There was more good fielding in the Dodger-Signal session than in any game played at Renfrew this season. Morgan made a good play on Junker's drive in the very first frame and Nelson picked off Ottem's foul fly against the boards. Junker robbed Superstein of a hit in the third and Superstein in turn made a remarkable catch of Culver's fly right behind second in the third. And there were several other nice efforts.

Mumaw Chucks No-Hitter As Enlisted Men Triumph

DANNY Mumaw posted a no-hit, no-run game at Kingsway Park yesterday afternoon when he pitched the U.S.A.F. Enlisted Men to a 4-0 victory over Central-Aeroliners in the second half of the City Men's Fastball League doubleheader. The U.S. Officers moved back into first place in the curtain raiser with a 10-4 win over Moose.

In pitching his no-hitter, Mumaw struck out six and only allowed two batters to get past first base, both of whom advanced as far as third. Mumaw's effort wasn't a flawless one, however, as he walked eight Centrals.

Dick Trippel, first up for the winners, dropped a bunt down the third base line to get on base, moved around to third on a putout at first and was driven in by Glen Daniels to put the Enlisted Men ahead where they remained.

Following is the box score:

U.S. ENLISTED MEN	AB	R	H	P	O	A	E

CENTRAL-AEROLINERS

WNO-HITTER IN WINNING

Mike Milner had two-hit ball for the U.S. Officers yesterday, as they trounced the cellar dwelling Moose club 10-4 in a game highlighted by a big fourth inning in which the winners scored four runs.

Milner was back in his game-winning form and fanned 10 batters and only walked two in seven innings.

The winners scored three runs in the first inning on a walk, a single, two putouts and a triple by Paul Stecky, added two in the third and four in the fourth, while Moose

Highlands Ace Easily Takes 36-Hole Match for 10th Straight Title

Henry Martell Again City Golf Champ

John Loucks Loses Final By 9 and 8

By DON KILLIPS

HENRY MARTELL, "Mr. Big" amongst the local shotmakers, made it quite definite over the week-end that this wasn't the year to yield the city amateur golf championship and trophy when he shot two blistering match play games at the Edmonton Golf and Country Club to capture his 10th straight title.

Henry eliminated Johnny Letke of Country Club four and three on Saturday afternoon in the semi-final and then won from the game Johnny Loucks of Mayfair nine and eight in the 36-hole final yesterday.

Other winners in the tournament are Andy Eagle who captured the first flight, Jack Smythe who took the second flight and Hamilton Drever who won out in the third flight.

WOOD PRESENTS TROPHY

Presentation of the trophy to the champion and of the other prizes were made by Pem Wood, referee of the final. It was the fifth time that Wood has handed out the mug. Martell played the first 18 holes of the final in grand style yesterday morning and was coasting on a 10 up score at the half way mark. He shot another three under par 68 on the round and although Loucks was giving him a good match he never appeared in danger after the first nine when he was five up.

Henry's putts were very good on the first 18 of the final, but Johnny's putting was what cost him most of the holes. The champion sank his best putt on the fourth hole, a 130 yard one that he made in two, for a birdie. He drove over the gully onto the green and then cannoned the ball from about 14 feet out.

NICE RECOVERIES

Martell made some nice recoveries from the rough on a couple of occasions while Loucks lost at least two holes by getting in the bush. Henry made a good one on the 11th when he drove off the fairway and appeared to have a lost ball. The putt was a real golf shot to land on the green from where he sank a nice putt to take the hole in a par three, one better than his opponent.

Both linksmen were driving well throughout the day and the chip shots were outstanding, especially on the long holes.

Although his tee off was not very good, Henry managed to come through on the initial hole for a par four while Johnny was taking a five to go ahead. The next was halved and the winner when three up on the third and fourth. The fifth was split and Martell won the next two, the sixth with a birdie four, to go two up. The eighth and ninth were halved with pars.

WINS FOUR IN A ROW

The Highlands ace took the next four in a row, all with even pars and that put him nine up at the end of the 13th. The fourth and fifth holes were halved, but the local police constable made a birdie with a four on the 16th while Loucks took a five, to go 10 up. The last two of the first 18 were divided.

Loucks, who entered the final by knocking club-mate Bill Broadfoot two and one in the other semi-final Saturday, appeared hopelessly beaten going out for the last half, but kept fighting and stayed in longer than expected.

SECOND ROUND DELAYED

The second round was delayed about half an hour by rain, but the sun reappeared and the golfers enjoyed the best of conditions. The loser made a nice recovery on the last half and managed to whittle the margin down to eight by the end of the 26th.

The 19th, 20th, 21st and 22nd were halved and Johnny came through with a nice putt on the next to win the hole and cut Martell's margin to nine. The 25th was split with a par four and then Loucks sank a wonderful putt on the 26th to make it eight up for the winner. The 27th was halved.

The match ended on the 28th, however, Loucks taking a poor chip shot that cost him an extra stroke and the game.

Following are the finalists' cards:

LETKE PUTS UP BATTLE

Johnny Letke gave Martell the best opposition in the tourney in the semi-final, as he forced him to come through with some real golf on the last nine to win out.

The match was all even on the ninth, but Henry began to get working in his familiar way and took four straight holes to win. He won the 10th with a par, the 11th and 12th holes with birdies and the 13th with a par three. The next two were halved and Martell was four up and three to go.

The other semi-final was also a close one with Loucks staging a come-back on the last nine to win two and one. The final was one down to Broadfoot at the half but managed to gain a margin of two by the 18th. Johnny got in the rough on the 11th and had a lost

Yanks Run Up 18-1 Count In Weird Game With Arrows

YANKS rang up a record score for the season when they swamped Arrows 18-1 in Saturday night's Senior Baseball League game at Renfrew Park. Four pitchers paraded to the mound for the losers.

Nine of the runs for the winners came in the fifth inning on six walks, two hits, a wild pitch and three errors. Lefty Elmer Thomas started, but was relieved in the fifth after the Yanks had collected four runs, on a pass, one hit and three errors plus a wild pitch.

Bill Gauf went in with one down and Dorsky on third and he walked five in succession. Steve Samis took over in the sixth and gave up four runs and four hits in two-thirds innings. Roy Sampson got along better, being nicked for a single hit, but no runs in 1 2-3 innings.

Wilbur Ray, recent arrival from Fairbanks, had whose home is in Lakeland, Florida, made an impressive debut for the Yanks. The big fellow gave up only three hits and struck out eight, while allowing three walks.

He was in difficulty only in the third inning, when after Maske, first man up was retired, Thomas tripled and Fred Lupul tripped and Harry Jones singled. Only one run resulted.

NEW YORK, July 17.—Gunder Haegg and Arne Anderson, the mercurial Swedes who raced again last Friday night before 20,000 fans at Stockholm, Sweden, may be nudging the "dream" four-minute mile before they complete their foot-racing duels in October.

Anderson achieved an upset victory Friday night over Gunder the Wonder in Stockholm stadium. He was clocked in 3:48.4 as he outran the great Haegg in the 1,500 metres—the metric mile. But this winning time was comparatively slow against the 3:43 registered by Haegg in winning their first 1,500 metre test, at Gothenburg, Sweden, a week previous.

That 3:43 of Haegg's is considered the indicator of a four-minute mile. Jesse Abramson of the New York Herald Tribune, America's outstanding track and field writer, emphasizes that the traditional time difference for the 120 yards between 1,500 metres and the mile run is approximately 17 seconds. Add 17 seconds to 3:43 and you get the four minute mile.

HAEGG CAME CLOSE
Abramson adds, however, that this is only an approximation which figures that Haegg was travelling at the rate of 7.35 yards a second—which incorrectly indicates that Haegg would have covered the remaining distance from 1,500 metres to the mile in 18.3 seconds.

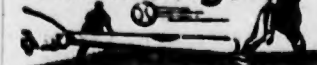

Abramson points out that—regardless of the attractiveness of such figures—they are essentially false because the actual time difference for the 1,500 metres and the mile is a bit more—at least 17.5 seconds.

Haegg, himself came close to the four-minute mile when he ran in Harvard Stadium last July. He was clocked in 3:47.8 at 1,500 metres, for an American record, en route to his 4:05.4 for another American mile record. He recovered the differential distance in 17.7. But he still was much farther away from the four-minute mile than the 4:02.6 world record for the mile registered last year by Anderson.

LIMIT DISCARDED
HAEGG'S 17.6 for the differential indicates that the time gap is closer to 18 seconds than 17. However, the fact that Anderson presses Haegg, and vice versa, in their 1,500-metre clashes, which will develop into full mile runs, indicates that both will be going all out through the 1,500 and through the remaining 120-yard gap. This might bring them close to four minutes for the mile.

There was a time when track scientists established 4:01.66 as the absolute limit of human effort.

for the mile. But that limit has been discarded because of the Haegg-Anderson rivalry. In less than six weeks—just starting their rivalry—Haegg has produced world marks of 3:43 for 1,500 metres and 8:46.4 for two miles; and Anderson has returned a new clocking of 3:56.6 for three-quarters of a mile.

Sweden may be neutral in the war; but Haegg and Anderson are mighty hostile toward the four-minute mile.

Death Scene Proves "Suspicious"

Thirty Canadian Soldiers Believed Slain By Gestapo Agents in Normandy Town

By ALAN RANDAL

A BRITISH ARMY BASE SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 17.—(CP)—In the tiny town of Andrieux in Normandy at least 30 Canadians died in the course of the invasion of France, described by Lieut. Leo Heaps of Winnipeg as victims of "murder."

"In my opinion it was a case of plain murder," said the 21-year-old lieutenant who is attached to the British army, when he told about the incident at this British army camp yesterday.

Gestapo "AT WORK"

He stressed that he had no proof, but said his opinion was shared by several soldiers who were at Andrieux with him. The manner in which the Canadians were sprawled against the walls of an inn, and the fact that French people said the Gestapo had been at work in the vicinity led Heaps to believe the Canadians had been killed in cold blood, probably after being captured.

"I saw the bodies of these men in the courtyard of an inn," said Heaps. "They were spawled against the walls in grotesque positions just as though they had fallen there and it hardly seems possible they could have been killed in action in that manner."

Heaps, who mentioned the incident in a letter to a friend in Toronto, where the story was made public last week, said he was first told of it by other British soldiers. Then he later saw the bodies of the Canadians for himself.

INFANTRY TROOPS

"It looked like the work of Hitler's S.S. troops or the Gestapo," he said. "It is the kind of thing they do and a French woman who was around told us that the Gestapo men had been in Andrieux a little bit earlier. I couldn't say what regiment the men belonged to but definitely they were Canadian infantrymen. It certainly was not a normal act of war although I doubt if the Germans have any normal acts."

Heaps said the men might have been killed by machine-gun, rifle or pistol fire. Although one of his friends told him at least one of the dead men had his hands tied behind his back, Heaps did not see this himself.

At the time Heaps thought that possibly the Canadians had been captured on D-Day and taken to Andrieux, about six miles inland, and had met death there. On the other hand, he did not deny the possibility the men had been killed in action somewhere else and their bodies taken to the courtyard, although this seemed unlikely, he said.

Heaps, an airborne officer, was used on a special D-Day job and landed on the beaches with British infantry. He was hurt in the course

Electric Power

KEY TO OUR NATION'S DEVELOPMENT

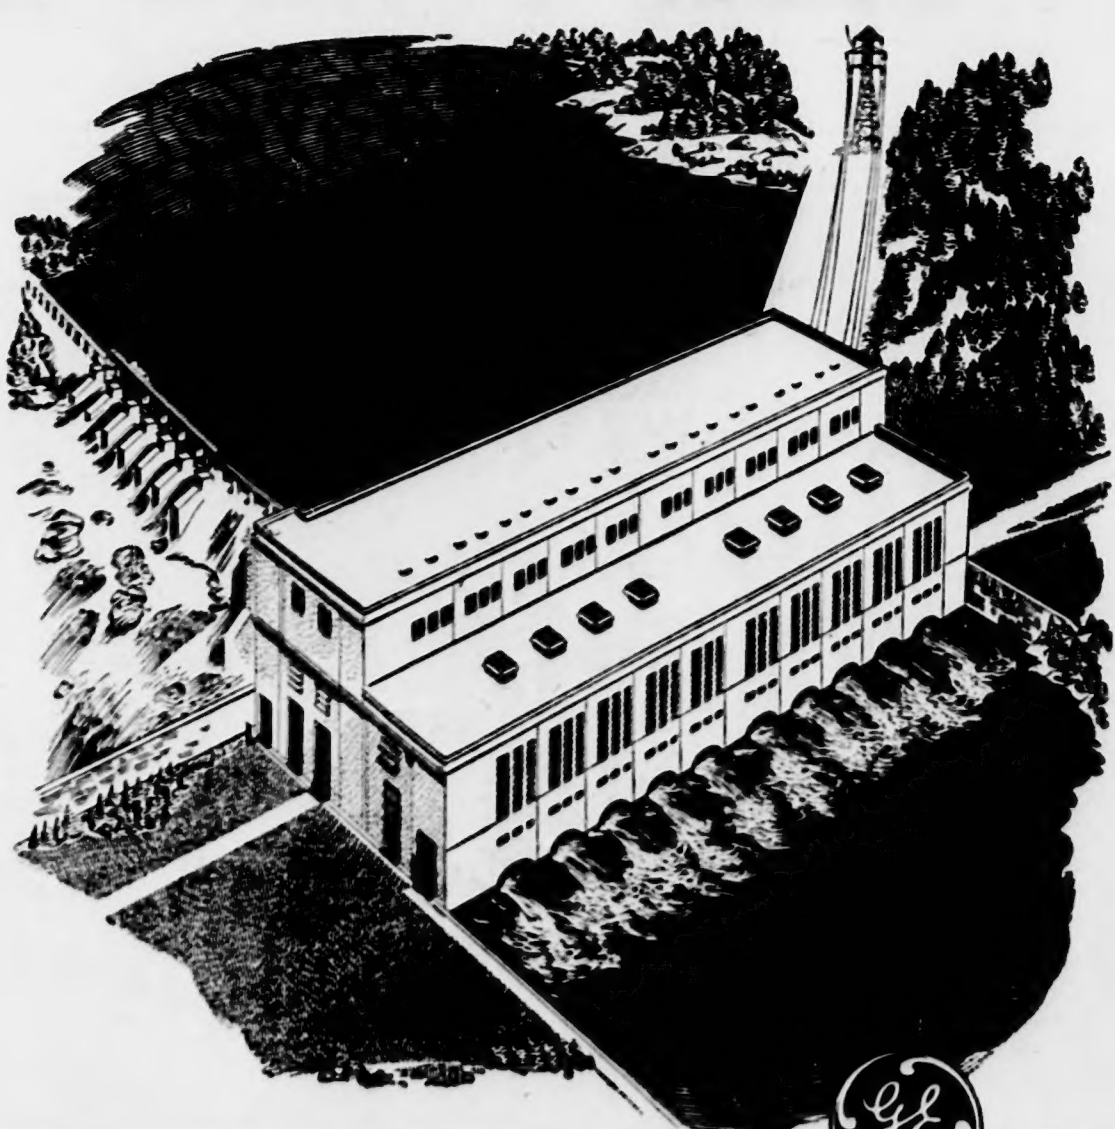

● Behind Canada's growth as a modern industrial nation, behind Canada's proud record of war production, behind all the plans for swift and splendid Canadian development after the war—stands one predominant factor, Electric Power!

Abundant, thrifty, inexhaustible—Electric Power, derived from the thundering waters of our mighty rivers, already has contributed much to Canada's progress. It has powered our factories and mines. It has stepped-up the output of our shipyards, lumber mills and farms. It has been a major factor in raising us to the position of fourth place among the arms producers of Democracy.

Yet, despite all that Electric Power has done and is doing here in Canada more and more uses will be found for it in the future. Wisely and widely applied in the days after Victory it can enrich us to an unimaginable degree—with finer cities, with worthier homes, with added leisure. It can lay the foundation of a still higher standard of living.

But such progress must be planned for. It must be planned for now—by all of us. By you, for your home . . . by you, for your business or farm . . . by you, for your community. True there must be no relaxation of our war effort today, yet by planning we prepare for action ahead . . . we prepare work ahead . . . we prepare markets ahead which will absorb our fullest productivity—create full and gainful employment for everyone—and thus establish the firm and stable basis upon which our nation's future can be built. Let us "Think Big" and plan big—now!

As "Canada's Greatest Electrical Workshop", Canadian General Electric is proud of the part it has played in the Dominion's electrical progress. C.G.E. for 52 years has been bringing the benefits of electrical living to the people of Canada. Today, with seven great plants and a staff of 10,000 workers, the Company is going all-out in support of Canada's vast and vital programme of war production.

Motorists Should Use Proper Signals

It's worth the effort to use the proper signals when you are making a turn or slowing up to a stop. It helps move congested traffic, saves time, saves car repairs, and sometimes may save your head.

Plan Encourage Oil Resources Of Northland

Regulations that will encourage the exploration and development of oil resources in the North West Territories have been established by the Dominion government.

He said that it is "definitely to the general advantage of Canada that new sources of oil be discovered in this country. There are approximately 100,000,000 acres of land in the North West Territories and in the Yukon warranting exploration for oil.

"Owing, however, to their remoteness and distance from markets large expenditures would be involved in exploring for and developing additional reserves sufficient to warrant the construction of a new pipeline. It is estimated that such expenditures would amount to $100,000,000, including the cost of the pipeline.

"In passing these regulations the remoteness of the country and the difficulties of operations have been borne in mind, and the interests of the crown in these resources has also been protected.

RATE IS FIXED
"Provision has been made for exploration permits of a substantial size, and the rate of royalties is being fixed on a relatively small scale during the initial period of development, the rate for the first five years being 7 1/2 per cent, for the second five years 10 per cent, and thereafter 12 1/2 per cent.

"In the case of the Imperial Oil, Ltd., it pays a fixed permanent royalty of five per cent on its two-thirds of the total oil produced.

BEST PRACTICES
"The regulations will also provide for operations being carried on in accordance with the best conservation practices. In addition there will be control over the prices to be charged for petroleum and petroleum products sold for use in the North-West. The right is given to any lessee to construct and operate a pipeline to the nearest market with free right of way for that purpose over crown lands. All pipelines shall be operated as common carriers under definite regulations.

"In regard to the agreement with the Imperial Oil Ltd., it is provided that the agreement shall come into effect six months after the termination of hostilities, or when the contract between the United States government and the company is terminated, whichever date is the sooner.

"In regard to oil development generally in the North West the Canadian government, under the new regulations, reserves the right to take possession at any time of all or any part of the areas held under permit or lease, together with improvements, buildings, and equipment thereon, with proper compensation to the owner."

Returning Airmen Give Praise To Work R.C.A.F. Ground Crews Decorated

Lauding the work being done by R.C.A.F. ground crews as absolutely "tops," two members of the air force Coastal Command arrived back in Edmonton after two and a half years' overseas service.

PO. Norman Fairhurst, 9629 90A street, has completed a tour of operations from England, and P. K. L. Crockett, 11146 87 avenue, was on duty in India.

Fairhurst was a member of the famous Demon squadron which did such a wonderful job against enemy shipping, submarines and docking installations. He said the squadron is still "flying high" and played an important role in the invasion of France.

He took part in a bombing raid on docks at Cherbourg several months before the invasion started. Of the ground crew he said "Those boys are really doing a magnificent job of keeping the aircraft in tip-top condition. Much of the success of the squadron is due to their vigilance and hard work."

Two Edmonton members of the ground crew whom he mentioned were LAC Fred Holcroft and LAC B. Nix. Other city men with whom he flew on the squadron include F. L. K. S. Goodman, PO. Peter Heron, D.F.C., PO. W. A. Brown.

The 24-year-old navigator enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in February, 1941, and went overseas in February, 1942. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Fairhurst and has one brother, PO. Jim who is a fighter pilot overseas.

He attended King Edward and Strathcona High school.

PO. K. L. Crockett, returned to the city Sunday from duty with the coastal command in India, as a navigator observer, and said he was anxious to get back into the scrap in any theatre of war.

He is the son of Walter M. Crockett, K.C., and Mrs. Crockett, 11146 87 avenue.

STUDIED LAW

At the time of his enlistment in April, 1940, he was a student of law at the University of Alberta. He received his early schooling in Vegreville.

He met a number of Edmontonians in India and from "just about every province in the Dominion." FO. Johnny Wates and LAC. Jack Edwards were among the city chaps he met.

After a month's leave the men will be posted to duty in Canada. Other returning airmen included WO. M. Stein and PO. J. R. Ward, both of this city.

Struck by Auto: Woman Is Injured

Mrs. Mary Letendre, 10028 103 avenue, received an injury to her left hip and scratches to one hand about 9 a.m. Saturday, after being struck and knocked down at 104 street near the Canadian National Railways depot by a woman said by city police to have been Ginna Russ, 10216 114 street. The auto was said to have been owned by her father, Simon Russ, 9517 Jasper avenue.

According to Mrs. Letendre, who was pushing her baby in a go-cart, the auto struck her as she was about to cross the avenue. The driver of the vehicle stopped, assisted her into the car, and took her home.

Interviewed by police, Miss Russ said she did not see Mrs. Letendre before the accident on account of a number of parked cars on the street.

Slug Jail Guard: 2 Men at Large

Two men, said by R.C.M.P. to be George Stowell Breen and John Francis MacAvity, were at large Saturday after slugging the guard at Nelson, B.C., provincial jail. Both had been convicted of breaking and entry, and theft, officers stated in reporting the matter to city police.

Breen was said to be 35 years old, five feet eight inches tall, and weighing 172 pounds. He was described as being of ruddy complexion, with dark brown hair and brown eyes. His clothing was not described.

Miners Call Meet To Talk Holidays

A special meeting of miners of the Edmonton district has been called at the Labor Hall here on Thursday, Aug. 3 to discuss the question of receiving holidays with pay in accordance with provision of the report by the commission headed by Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor inquiring into the coal industry in Alberta.

At a meeting held in Labor hall Sunday to discuss the holiday situation, John Stokalski, Calgary, vice-president, District 18, United Mine Workers of America, reported that all miners in district 18 except those in the Edmonton area are being allowed holidays with pay.

It was stated that at a conference of local coal operators held on the subject three weeks ago, a decision was reached to honor the O'Connor award. However, no move has been made to institute the holiday-with-pay plan.

The piano, organ, harp and traps are musical instruments played with both hands and feet.

8 Conventions This Week For Independents

This promises to be a busy week with the Independent party nominating conventions being scheduled for all parts of the province.

Three conventions were scheduled for Monday—in Red Deer, St. Albert and Calgary. The Red Deer convention is being held in that city, while the St. Albert meeting is scheduled for Morinville. It is expected that Wilfred Edgar, who was defeated in the Red Deer by-election some months ago, will probably be nominated.

In the St. Albert riding, the former member, Lionel Teller, will not be a candidate. Reports are that the choice will probably be between Joe Nadeau and Jim Bentley.

Down in Calgary the Independents will probably follow Edmonton's lead and nominate four candidates for their Citizens' slate. Mayor Andrew Davison and J. J. Bowen, former leader of the provincial Liberal party, will again be candidates.

FOR OLDS

On Tuesday a nominating convention for the Olds constituency will be held at Trochu, while on Wednesday the independent supporters in the Peace River district will nominate at Berwyn. J. C. Mahaffy, K.C., of Calgary, will be the guest speaker, while it is expected that E. J. Martin, former member, will again secure the nomination.

On Thursday, the Alexandra constituents will hold a nominating meeting at Kitscoty, while on Friday conventions will be held in both the Bruce and Sedgewick ridings.

Both these meetings are scheduled for 8 p.m. The guest speaker at the Bruce convention, which will be held in that town, will be J. Percy Page, provincial president of the I.C.A.A. The convention for the Sedgewick constituency is billed for Sedgewick.

"Although our conventions are, in most cases, somewhat later than those held by opposing groups, preparations have been going on quietly for some time. Naturally, we would have welcomed longer notice of the election; however, I think you will find that the Independents will give their opponents a real battle before the issue is settled," said J. Percy Page when commenting on the chances of the Independent group.

A veteran of two wars, Lt.-Col. J. Edgar has been appointed brigade major of the 41st (R) Brigade Group, it was announced Monday. He succeeds Maj. W. C. Roberts, who has retired from the Canadian Army and is residing in Victoria. Lt.-Col. Edgar was overseas in the present war, and served for many years with the P.P.C.L. in the First Great War. He will arrive here soon.

R.C.A.F. Flies Mother-To-Be From West Area

Taking off from a hastily improvised runway cut through a scrub-covered field, a Norseman aircraft of the Northwest Air Command communications flight brought to Edmonton an expectant mother in urgent need of hospitalization, who had been marooned in the flooded Shoal Creek district of the Pembina river.

Difficulties were anticipated with the confinement, and no medical attention was available at Shoal Creek. The journey to Edmonton would have taken three days by horse and wagon, the only other available means of transport, and after Thursday's rains mud conditions were so bad it was doubtful if the trip could have been made at all.

In answer to a distress call, the R.C.A.F. sent in the aircraft, which was piloted by FO. Joe Coombes, Prince Albert, Sask. Ph. Lt. R. W. Burnap, medical officer, and Nursing Sister H. M. Brown, 11347 102 street, both of the R.C.A.F. medical staff in Edmonton, went along.

DIFFICULT LANDING

Coombes successfully completed a difficult landing in a ploughed field at Shoal Creek, but the aircraft bogged down and could not take off from the same spot. A tractor was borrowed, and the plane was towed to an adjoining field which was largely covered with short scrub and brush.

Shoal Creek residents volunteered to get to work and clear a runway through the brush wide enough for the Norseman to take off.

Time was getting short, the Norseman had not left Edmonton until 4 p.m., and by now it was well into evening with the prospect of a night take-off. Volunteers worked swiftly to get the path cleared in time, and by dusk Coombes was ready to try the take-off.

Meanwhile, Ph. Lt. Burnap and Nursing Sister Brown had made the patient as comfortable as possible, and she was settled in the aircraft. The three R.C.A.F. members talked over the take-off, which they knew would be extremely hazardous.

"I put it up to Joe," Flight Lt. Burnap said later, "that we would have to take a chance on our own necks to guard two other lives—the woman's and that of her child. Joe didn't hesitate, but said that if we were prepared to take the chance, he didn't care. It was only his brilliant flying that got us out of there."

The Norseman sped down the rough airstrip, bouncing fearfully, then lifted and just grazed the tops of some trees which stood at the end of the field.

As it came in for its landing at Edmonton at 11 p.m. Friday night, Coombes found the throttle had jammed wide open, and he was forced to switch off and land on a dead motor. A twig from one of the trees had forced its way into the throttle valve, jamming it tight.

Called Man Name: Soldier Is Beaten

A soldier Saturday night nursed a lump on the side of his head and a severely scratched cheek after he had allegedly asked another man why he wasn't in uniform. "You're yellow," he was said by police to have told the other. The second man came forward when officers appeared at the cafe, where they had been called by the proprietor. The former had but one eye, and that was why he was not in uniform, he stated.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION
What do you think of the extension of the bus service on Whyte avenue to 104 street?

THE ANSWERS
H. McDONALD, clerk: I think it's a very good idea and will do a lot to relieve congestion on street cars, particularly this winter.

MRS. W. SCOTT, housewife: It looks like another step toward completion of the loop. When the buses are operating right along Whyte avenue and across the High Level Bridge it's really going to be a splendid service.

R. JACKSON, salesman: The extension makes the bus service available to quite a few more people who probably wouldn't previously have bothered to transfer from a street car. It's certainly a good fast service and I'm looking forward to the day when buses are used all over the city.

Set Up House Under Canvas

By MARGARET ECKER
WITH A CANADIAN GENERAL HOSPITAL IN BRITAIN, July 17—(CP)—When Canadian nursing sisters in France set up house and hospital in tents they weren't greenhorns at living under canvas.

For weeks before the various Canadian general hospitals left England they had training in outdoor living. They learned how to build an outdoor ablutions room and where to put clothes at night so they wouldn't be damp with dew in the morning.

Members of No. 1 General Hospital were camped on the brow of a hill when I visited them.

Capt. Isabel Gillespie of Winnipeg, assistant matron, was in charge and when she heard us she stuck her head out of a bell tent.

"We have found how to make ourselves comfortable," said the captain as she showed us the low Safari beds on which nurses place their sleeping bags.

In one large tent Ella Hatfield of Dufour, Sask., was doing the morning's housework—making up sleeping bags, washing stocks in canvas buckets, packing things into kit bags, since the nurses under command training had to be ready to evacuate camp at short notice.

First Thoughts of Royal Alex Calendar

By KAY FORD

In June, 1899, the Women's Hospital Aid to the Royal Alexandra hospital was formed as it had been decided in February of the same year to establish another hospital, public and non-sectarian.

From the beginning of the Aid the pioneer women of Edmonton strengthened the hands of those responsible for carrying on the work of caring for the sick, and in many cases laid notes on the hospital which fell due at the bank. In 1904, the Aid paid $1,900 on an overdraft at the bank and so helped over a serious difficulty and when the new hospital was ready for furnishing the Aid had raised over $10,000 to be spent.

Instruction in tuberculosis cases is at present a major activity of the Aid. Members have kept a paid teacher in occupational therapy in the hospital for the past six years and members buy material for beginners in these classes.

SITE SETTLED ON

The history of the Aid and the Royal Alexandra hospital run hand in hand. In April, 1899, 45 years ago, a site was settled on which was the corner of the Boyle street property now Patricia park.

It was decided to erect a two-story building costing $11,050 to be finished by the following spring. In the fall of 1899 there was an urgent need for immediate hospital care and it was decided to stop plans for the larger hospital and rent a house at once and open a cottage hospital for the time being. This plan fell through and a temporary hospital was started in the spring of 1900 and in September that year the Boyle street hospital, familiarly so called, opened its doors with a matron at $35 a month and an assistant at $25.

GENEROUS SUPPORT

From the beginning of the hospital the fraternal societies in Edmonton and the surrounding district helped generously offering to furnish a room or a double room. There was generous support extended to the hospital from the churches. A Sunday was set aside every year as Hospital Sunday. Canadian-wide women's organizations assisted.

Reserve Army Notes

Value of Reserve Training Seen In Range Results

Value of Reserve Army training for boys under call-up age is seen in recent scores registered on the Winterburn ranges by band boys of the No. 1 (R) Armored Div. Ordnance Workshop firing .30-inch service rifles.

Out of twelve boys who fired grouping, application, rapid and snap shooting exercises, six are "expert" shots with 85 per cent or over. Boy Stanley Pendleton dropped only six points out of 90, four others being classed as "marksmen" with 75 per cent or over.

Points recorded out of highest possible score of 90 are as follows: Pendleton (84), Ragan (82), Hatch (81), Riddell (80), Evans (77), Krause (76), Bateman (72), Welsh (71), Davies (70), Bottomley (67).

Within the next few weeks these boys will fire Bren gun exercises on the outdoor range.

A series of outdoor tactical exercises embracing Infantry and Workshop action in the field will be concluded by the Workshop company next week-end with a skirmish in the South Edmonton area. A recent exercise in the Mill Creek valley resulted in excellent co-ordination and control and was pronounced the most successful yet staged by the unit. Analysis of each scheme is carried out by officers and N.C.O.'s at Regimental School each Monday night.

81ST (R) FD, BTY., R.C.A.

The 81st (R) Field Battery has now the necessary equipment for showing training films, and the first picture of this nature was put on to conclude the evening's drill on Wednesday, July 12. This has proved to be a most effective method of showing the use of new equipment and new methods, and will be an interesting and most helpful aid in carrying on future training.

Capt. E. E. Culley of Calgary, the training officer of the 81st (R) Field Regiment, will be in Edmonton during the week of July 17 to 22, and a special parade of officers, N.C.O.'s and specialists is being held in order to review the training which has been done.

Capt. Culley proved himself to be an exceedingly efficient training officer during the 1943 camp period, and while he has not had many opportunities of being with the Edmonton Battery, he is always a most welcome visitor.

2ND (R) BATTALION, THE LOYAL EDMONTON REGIMENT

Preparations are in full swing for the annual camp, and as the time draws closer, the boys are getting all keyed up and hoping that the weather man will be considerate while the unit is at Sarcee. Reports of the weather in Calgary district during the past few days have been favorable, so here's hoping that there will be a continuance of the present fine weather. With regard to training, a much improved syllabus has been drawn up by Brigade Headquarters, and an excellent program of sports to be run off during the evenings has been organized.

All personnel of the unit extend congratulations to their Commanding Officer, Lt.-Col. R. W. Hale, M.C., E.D., on his appointment to the post of Area Commandant, succeeding Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., who recently retired from the army. Lt.-Col. Hale has been in command of the unit since June 1940, and is held in high esteem by all ranks, who wish him every success in his new appointment.

4TH CASUALTY CLEARING STATION AND 13TH FIELD HYGIENE SECTION

On Sunday, July 9, these two units held their Bren gun tests at Winterburn rifle range. The results were very satisfactory and reflected the thorough instruction for which great credit goes to the instructional staff. Pte. Munroe was fortunate enough to record the highest score with S/Sgt. McMillan and Cpl. Blair ranging close behind him.

Continued instruction in subjects special to the units is now being carried on preparatory to attending camp in August.

2ND (R) BN. EDMONTON FUSILIERS

"A" Coy. of the Fusiliers enjoyed an evening of entertainment last Thursday which was designed to attract more recruits. The program and refreshments

North Edmonton V.V.R. Is Winner In Leduc Shoot

Marksmen from the North Edmonton Battalion, Veterans' Volunteer Reserve, were winners of the team event in a target shoot and field day held at Leduc Sunday, at which teams representing the North and South Edmonton Battalions, and the Red Deer and Leduc units, took part. T. Moorhouse is musketry officer for the winners.

Roy Cox of North Edmonton V.V.R. was high man in the individual event, and Dave Jones of Leduc unit took high aggregate score. In the individual off-hand competition, winners were E. LaTourneau, Leduc, W. LeGros, North Edmonton, and Capt. J. Drever, O.C. Red Deer unit, in that order. Visitors were welcomed to Leduc by L. St.C. Gaetz, officer commanding Leduc V.V.R., who presided at a chicken dinner provided by the Leduc veterans, and attended by all who took part in the competition.

FROM CITY UNITS

Twelve men from each of the Edmonton battalions made the trip, in charge of Capt. P. W. Johnson, officer commanding the South Side unit, representing Major R. C. Arthur, M.C., executive officer, who was unable to attend. Sgt. Major J. Jones represented headquarters. Red Deer and Leduc also each

Buzz-Bombs "Backfire"

By IAN MUNRO

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, July 17.—(CP)—Front-line Allied troops in Normandy stood up and cheered as a flying bomb buzzed over their heads, flew on a couple of miles until its motor cut out, and then crashed right in the middle of the German lines.

The flying bombs which have landed in the German lines have come in from the area of the north. They had evidently been launched in the Pas De Calais area, but their delicate gyroscopic control apparatus had gone wrong. As a result they swept over the channel in a wide arc to crash on French territory after a semi-circular flight which came nowhere near the coast of England at which they were aimed.

It was announced that a field day will be held in Red Deer on Aug. 27, to which all units in the province will be invited.

War Savings Stamps were awarded the various winners and, before leaving, Capt. Johnson, on behalf of the visitors, thanked Mr. Gaetz and the Leduc unit for a very enjoyable and successful meet.

Commandos Attack Nazis Holding Dalmatian Isles

By ASTLEY HAWKINS

SOMEWHERE IN YUGOSLAVIA, July 17.—British, American and Yugoslav Partisan forces have combined in a series of co-ordinated commando raids in recent months to kill or capture large numbers of Germans garrisoning the Dalmatian islands.

In more than one raid the entire German garrison was liquidated.

These operations, moreover, have contributed materially towards a radical change on this front since the beginning of the year when the Allies held only Vis.

The Germans were then threatening to overrun Vis, as they had taken over all other Dalmatian islands with the collapse of Italy. But imaginative and aggressive tactics and repeated thrusts at German defences on these other islands are believed to have made the enemy apprehensive that he may be invaded any day.

All the main German-held islands off the Dalmatian coast have been targets of one or more commando raids since February. One of the first and most successful raids was a combined operation on the island of Solta. Here in mid-March British and American commandos with the assistance of the Royal Navy and R.A.F. combined to eliminate the entire German garrison of 160 men in the island town of Grohote.

The most recent important raid was against the island of Brac which lies astride the sea approaches to the mainland port of Split. British, American and Partisan forces combined in a substantial attack designed to divert German forces at the time an offensive was being developed against Marshal Tito's headquarters inside Yugoslavia several weeks ago. Some 350 Germans were killed on the island in three days heavy fighting before the raiders withdrew.

Shipyard Workers Plan Strike Vote

HALIFAX, July 17.—(CP)—The Halifax local of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers which includes workers of the Halifax shipyards and the marine slip at Dartmouth, across the harbor from Halifax, decided unanimously Saturday night to take a strike vote. The move followed an announcement by R. J. R. Nelson, general manager of the Halifax Shipyards Ltd., that the company does not propose granting union checkoff privileges and a "maintenance of union membership" clause in its next contract as recommended in the majority report of a federal board of conciliation.

Soldier's Family Won't Be Evicted

TORONTO, July 17.—(CP)—Acting-Mayor R. H. Saunders said last night no attempt will be made to evict Mrs. Francis Poole and her five children from their home here Monday.

He said he notified Alderman Sims that the sheriff's office would take no action to move the family and that city officials would appear in court on Mrs. Poole's behalf. Sgt. Poole, the father, has been overseas 4½ years and is now in the Mediterranean.

As a result, Ald. Sims said the proposed veterans' guard of honor which was to have gone to the home Monday "to try to dissuade the sheriff and landlord" from evicting the wife and family of an overseas serviceman will not meet at the Poole home, but will be on the "alert."

"You can assure the public that no soldier's family will be put on the streets in Toronto," said Mr. Saunders. "So far as we are concerned, we feel this is a matter for the Dominion government, but failing some arrangement from Ottawa, we will not stand to see soldiers' families evicted."

Find Man's Body In Hotel Ruins

MAGOG, Que., July 17.—(CP)—Police Saturday combed the ruins of Battle's House hotel here and recovered the body of 74-year-old Percy Wagland of Lachine, Que., who was burned to death when the hotel caught fire earlier Saturday. Four other persons suffered burns which required hospital treatment. Damage was estimated at more than $100,000.

THIS ARMY

"I guess it's up to me!"

Now that I can go I'm not going to stick around and let the other fellows do it.

Bill and Jack went over last week, and Fred's been over there a year. Now it's my chance.

It's going to take months of training before I can get fighting fit, so I'd better get moving today.

Yes sir! I'm going now, to tell Dad and Mom that I'm on my way to sign up.
